Diana Dove's DISCOVERING NIGHT WILDLIFE

Friday, August 20, 2010 at 6:30 pm

Join Diana Dove in this interactive evening program that introduces night-time wildlife through a slide show, a song or two and life-like stuffed animals. Participants will learn about nocturnal creatures such as raccoons, skunks, bats, flying squirrels, frogs, and much more. Bring your favorite stuffed wild animal toy or puppet. Kids may come in pajamas! Bring a blanket or pillow to sit. Popcorn will be provided. Bring your own water.

Jack Branagan's Earth Matters IT'S ALL IN A DROP

Friday, September 10, 2010 at 6:30 pm

Water is one of the most abundant natural resources on planet earth. Without water, life could not exist. Both plants and animals depend on water for survival. In this eye-opening presentation with fluorescent puppets, participants travel with Jack and his five year old daughter, Amanda Lee, down the Delaware River to learn about the water cycle -an endless process which circulates water throughout the world. Learn how all forms of life depend upon clean water, how pollution affects us all and how to take care of our most precious natural resource-WATER!

Professor Winklebottom's OUR EARTH, WHAT A GAS!

Friday, October 1, 2010 at 6:30 pm

Follow the adventures of Professor Winklebottom and Meatloaf as they examine our atmosphere, the basics we need to survive and the delicate cycles of the Carbon/Oxygen/Hydrogen exchange between the Plant and Animal Kingdoms. This vaudeville-styled extravaganza illustrates how litter and other pollutants threaten this delicate balance, trapping gasses and warming the Earth's atmosphere; and highlights simple ways we can chip in to take care of our Earth.
